English Language Arts

Students practiced reading skills in decoding words with prefix, suffix, and root words.

We learn new words by using prior knowledge, story dialog and what makes sense.

Our class reading options are books related to our unit on government, citizenship and communities.

Students identified long vowels, digraphs and trigraphs.

Target Language Arts

French

This week students were evaluated on their understanding of the story Splat raconte ses vacances. Next week we will start a new story and new centers with the book "Lulu presidente".
